Text of Lloyd George's Speech

LONDON, April 10 .- The text of Premier Lloyd George's speech in the House of Commons yesterday, announcing that conscription would be applied in Ireland follows:

We have entered the most critical phase of this terrible war. There a lull in the storm, but the hurricane is not over. Doubtless we must expect more fierce outbreaks, and ere it is finally exhausted there will be

The fate of the Empire, the fate of Europe and the fate of liberty throughout the world may depend on the success with which the very last of these attacks is resisted and countered.

Government, therefore, purposes to submit to Parliament today certain recommendations in order to assist this country and the allies to weather the storm. They will involve, I regret, extreme sac-rifices on the part of the large classes of the population and noth-would justify them but the most treme necessity, and the fact that we are fighting for all that is ssential and most sacred in our

Before I come to the circumstances which led us to our submitting these proposals to Parliament, I ought to say one word as to why Parliament was not immediately summoned. Since the bat-tle began the Government has been engaged almost every hour in concerting with the allies the nec-essary measures to assist the arm-ies to deal with the emergency.

Required Close Study.

The proposals which we intend submitting to Parliament required very close and careful examinatio and I think there is this advantage in our meeting today, rather immediately after the impact of the German attack, that we shall be considering these proposals un-der conditions which will be far removed from any suggestion of

I shall now come to the circumstances which have led to the present military position. It is very clear, connected and reliable narrative of what happened. There has been a great battle on a front of fifty miles—the greatest battle ever fought in the history of the world. Enormous forces have been engaged; there was a considerable retirement on the part of the Brit-ish forces and under these conditions it is not always easy for some time to ascertain what actually standing the heavy casualties in 1917, the army in France was considerably stronger on the first of January, 1918, than on the first of January, 1917. Up to the end of 1917—up to, say about October or November—the German combatant strength in France was as two to the allies' three. Then came the military collapse of Russia and the Germans hurried up their released divisions from the Eastern front and brought them to the West. They had a certain measure of Austrian support which had been accorded to them "Owing to the growth of the strength of our armies in 1917. when this battle began the combatant strength of the whole of the German army on the western front was only approximately, though not quite equal to, the total com batant strength of the allies in infantry. They were slightly in ferior in artillery. They were inferior in cavalry, they were considerably inferior and what is very important, they were undoubtedly inferior in aircraft. "The Germans, therefore, organized their troops so as to produce a larger number of divisions out of the slightly smaller number of infantry and slightly smaller number of guns. They had fewer battalions in a division and fewer men in a battalion. That is entirely a question of organization and it yet remains to be seen that their organization is better than ours. It is necessary to explain that, in order that the House should realize why, with approximately the same number of men the Germans have a larger number of divisions on that front. Advantage to Attackers. "According to all the facts which have come to hand as to the losses of the battle, that roughly repre-sents the relative strength of the combatants on both sides at this moment. The Germans had, however, one or two important advantages. The first, the initial advantage, which is always commanded by the offensive, is that they know where they mean to attack. They ose the ground; they choose the location; they know the width mensions of the attack; they know the time of the attack; they know the method of the attack. All that invariably gives the initial advantage to the offensive. The defense has a general advantage. Owing to air obser ation concealment is difficult. At the same time, in spite of all that, owing to the power of moving troops at night, which the Germans exercised to a very large extent, here is a large margin for surprise, even in spite of air observation, and of this the enemy took full advan-

here as to the difficulty which the allied Generals were confronted with in this respect. Before the battle the greatest German concentration was in front of our troops. That was no proof that the full weight of the attack would fall on us. There was a very large concentration opposite the French lines. There was a How U.S. Came to Brigade Her Battalions With Those of Allies considerable number of men in the course of training and the allies looked forward to having in the spring. It has taken longer than anticipated to turn those soldiers into the necessary divisional organizations. If America waited to complete the divisional organizations it would not be possible for these fine troops in any large numbers to take part in this battle, although it might be very well the decisive

"This was, of course, one of the most serious disappoint-ments from which the allies had uffered. It is no use pretending t was not one of our chief causes of anxiety. We depend upon it largely to make up the defection of Russia. For many reasonsreasons, perhaps of reasons connected with the time troops and their officers, but to tion-it was quite impossible to put into France the number of divisions everyone had confi-

"On the strength of the conversation we submitted pro posals to President Wilson, with the strong support of Premier Clemenceau, to enable the combatant strength of the American Army to come into action dur ing this battle, inasmuch as there was no hope of it coming in as a strong separate army. By this decision American battalions will be brigaded with those of the allies.

"This proposal was submit ted by Earl Reading on behalf of the British Government to President Wilson, and President Wilson assented to the proposa without any hesitation, with the result that arrangements are being made for the fighting strength of the American Army to be brought immediately to bear in this struggle, a struggle which is only now beginning to this extent, and it is no mere small extent that the German attack has been held up. It has stirred up the resolution and energy of America beyond any. thing which has yet occurred.

"The immediate necessity i relieved by the splendid and generous way and promptitude in which America has come to our aid, but they are simply lent to receive their training with a view to their incorporation a the first suitable moment in the American Army in France and even if they remain with the British right through the battle, the time will come when we shall need great reinforcements if this battle continues.'

be attached to the fact that theirs very considerable concentration-I was a perfectly united command.

And that is an obvious advantam referring now to the German reserves-on the northern part of ige, for, if the risks in one particular part of the line are great, After the battle began or immeand in another part of the line are great but substantially less than in diately before the battle, the Ger-

But it would have been equally easy for them, while the problem is a difficult one; it is more difficult to adjust the balconcentrating troops opposite our ance of risk and the General is front, to maneuver them in the always naturally inclined to give same way opposite the French. I himself and his army the benefit am only referring to that in order of any doubt. That may be beto show how exceedingly difficult cause if anything goes wrong there it is for Generals on the defensive he alone is to be held responsible to his countrymen for the safety of his army. The enemy have another incidental but as it turned out very important advantage, that weather. Exceptional weather favored his designs. It was both dry and misty. The attack which sucthe line where under ordinary ng conditions the ground would have been almost impossible A wounded officer told a friend of mine today, a General-that under ordinary conditions no one could walk across to the part which was traversed by the Germans at this time of the year. But it just happened to be absolutely dry and firm, and they walked across ground which no one had any right to expect at this time of year would be in that condition.

"Not only that, but the fact that it was warm increased the mist and the Germans were actually in some parts within a few yards of our front line before any one knew of their approach. It was quite impossible to observe them. This was a special disadvantage to us, inasmuch as our scheme or organization in that particular part of the line depended largely upon the cross line fire of machine guns and artillery. They had, therefore, a very spe cial advantage, of which they made the fullest use. Takes Up Battle

"With regard to the battle itself, as I have already stated, it will take some time to ascertain the whole facts. At one time it was undoubtedly very critical. The enemy broke through between our third and fifth armies and there was a serious gap, and the situation was retrieved owing to the magnificent conduct of our troops. They retired in perfectly good order, re-established the junction between the two armies and frustrating the enemy's purpose. The House can hardly realize and certainly cannot sufficiently thank the country nor our troops for their superb valor and the tenacity with which they faced overwhelming hordes of the enemy. They retired, but were never routed, and once more the cool pluck of the British soldiers that refuse to acknowledge defeat saved Europe.

"I am referring to the whole army, Generals, officers and sol-diers—I mean the whole army and I draw no distinction. Their conduct has been one of increditable courage and great coolness under the most trying conditions. I do not think that any distinction can be drawn between officers and men. I am referring to the British army and that means all. "And I specially refer to what one Brigadier-General did. Some reference has been made in the point there was a serious gap, which might have let the enemy into Calais.

which led to the retirement of the fifth army and its failure to hold the line of the Somme at least till the Germans brought out their guns, and perhaps the failure adequately to destroy the bridges until these are explained, it will be unfair to censor the General in command, Gen. Gough. But until those circumstances are cleared up would be equally unfair to the British army to retain his services in the field. It is necessary to recall him until the facts have been fully ascertained and laid be-fore the Government.

French Are Praised. After the retirement of the fifth army the French reserve came up with remarkable rapidity when their position before the bat speed with which, when the final decision was taken as to the real designs of the enemy, the French eserves were brought up, is one of the most remarkable feats of organization in this war and be tween the courage of our troops and the handling of the army—the way the third army held, never giving way a hundred yards to the attack of the enemy—I think it right that it should be said about the army commanded by Gen. Byng—what between the efforts of our soldiers and the loyal assistance given in true spirit of comradeship by the French army, the position is for the moment stabilized. But it is clear that the Germans having gained an initial success are preparing another and

Up to the present the enemy has undoubtedly obtained a great initial success. There is no good in not accepting the facts. It is from that basis we must begin to build. But he has failed so far in his main objects. He failed to capture Amiens. He failed to separate the French and British armies, but we should be guilty of great, it might be fatal, error if we were to underestimate the gravity of the

The enemy has captured valuable ground, which is too near Amiens for comfort or security, and he has succeeded for the time being in crippling one of our great armies.

I will now tell the House something of the measures adopted by the Cabinet to meet the emergency. I have already explained what was one about the French reserves. The Cabinet took every step to hurry up reinforcements in order to fill the gap in our armies. No such large numbers of men ever passed across the channel in so

I am very glad to be able to say that the Ministry of Munitions was able not merely to replace these guns and machine guns, but that they still have got a very substantial reserve. The same thing applies to ammunition. There is an ample reserve of ammunition, both in this country and in France Our aircraft strength is greater than before the battle, and we all know what brilliant service our airmen rendered in this battle. Until the whole story of the battle is told it will be almost impossible to estimate the services they rendered in retarding the advance of the enemy, in destroying his machinery and in making it difficult for him to bring up his guns and ammunition. We feel confident that our armies, Generals and soldiers will be quite equal to the next encounter whenever it comes.

Praises America's Response The next step to which I should like to call the attention of the House is the material and dramatic assistance rendered by President Wilson in this emergencyone of the most important deci sions of the war. In fact, the issue of the battle might very well be determined by this decision.

In America there is a very cor siderable number of men in the course of training, and the allies looked forward to having a large American army in France in the spring. It has taken longer than anticipated to turn those soldiers into the necessary divisional or-ganizations. If America waited to complete the divisional organizations it would not be possible for these fine troops in any large num bers to take part in this battle in this campaign, although it might be very well the decisive battle of

This was, of course, one of the most serious disappointments from which the allies had suffered. It is no use pretending it was not of of our chief causes of anxiety. We depend upon it largely to make up the defection of Russia. For many reasons—reasons, perhaps of transport, reasons connected with the time it takes, not merely to complete the necessary organization-it was quite impossible to put into France the number of divisions every one had confidently expected would be there.

Under the circumstances we, therefore, submitted to the Presi dent of the United States a definite proposal. We had the advantage of having the Secretary of State for War in this country after the battle had commenced. Mr. Balfour and I had a long conversation with him and we submitted to him certain recommendations which we had been advised to make to Mr. Baker and the American Government.

On the strength of the conver-President Wilson with the strong support of Premier Clemenceau, to enable the combatant strength of the American army to come into action during this battle, was much as there was no hope of its coming is as a strong separate army. By this decision American battalions will be brigaded with those of the allies. This proposal was submitted by Earl Reading on behalf of the British Government to President Wilson and President Wilson assented to the proposa without any hesitation with the result that arrangements now are being made for the fighting strength of the American army to be brought immediately to bear in this struggle, a struggle which is only now beginning, to this extent, and it is no mere small extent, that the Gerdman attack has been held up. It has stirred up the resolution and energy of America beyond anything which has yet Another important decision tak en by the allies I must also call to the attention of the house. became more obvious after the battle that the allies were suffer ing from the fact that they were fighting as two separate armies and had to negotiate support with each other. Valuable time was thus lost. Some of us had been deeply impressed by this peril for some time and had done our best to avert it.

But the inherent difficulties to be overcome are tremendous. There are national prejudices, national interest, professional prejudices and traditions. The inherent difficulties of getting two or three great armers to fight as one are almost insurmountable, and it can only be done if public opinion in all these countries insist on it as one condition of success. suggest to the House that no good would come at this stage in discussing this question. But if any one needed conpolicy, this battle must have supplied it. The peril we passed through by establishing the conviction without challenge may, think, be worth the price we paid for it. A few days after the battle commenced there was not merely the Government, but the com manders, in the field. We had not merely field marshals, but army commanders present. We were so convinced-and the same thing applied to the French-of the importance of more complete strategic unity that they agreed to the ointment of Gen. Foch to the supreme command of all the allies on the western front.

May I not say just one word about Gen. Foch? It is not merely that he is one of the most of brilliant soldiers, but there is this to be said about Foch: He is the man who, when we were attacked and were in a similar plight at the first battle, Yypres, rushed the French army there by every conceivable expedience-buses, cabs, lorries, anything he could lay his hands upon. He crowded French divisions through, and undoubtedly helped to win the great battle There is no doubt about the loy alty and comradeship of Gen. Foch. I have no doubt that this arrangement will be carried out not merely in the letter, but in the spirit. But it is the most impor-

Marvelous Forecast of Sir Henry Wilson on German Offensive

"I may just say a word here. This problem was considered very closely by the military staff at Versailles and I think it right n justice to them, to point out that after a very close study of the German position and of the probabilities of the case, they came to the conclusion, and they stated their conclusion to the military representatives and to the ministers in the month of January or the beginning of February, that the attack would come south of Arras; that it would be an attack on a very wide front—that it would be an attack on the widest front ever yet assailed; that the Germans would accumulate 95 divisions for the purpose of making that attack; that they would throw the whole of their resources and heir strength into breaking the British line at that point and that their objective would be the capture of Amiens and the severance of the British and French

"That was the conclusion Si Henry Wilson (chief of the imperial staff) came to and which was submitted at that time, two or three months ago, and I think that it was one of the most renarkable forecasts of enemy inentions that was ever made.

"As a matter of fact, the at-tack was made up, I think, by about 97 divisions. It was an attack on the widest front that had ever been engaged. Its ob-ject undoubtedly was the capture of Amiens and the severance of the British and French forces, so that, in almost every detail, that very remarkable forecast has been verified in the event."

This strategic unity is, I submit condition of victory. It can only be maintained by complete co-operation between the Government and the Generals and by something more than that—the unmistakable reason. Generalissimo in the ordinary and full sense of the term may be impracticable. There are three functions which a General yields-strategical, tactical and administrative. What does administrative mean? It means control of organization, the appointment and dismissal of officers and Generals and that is a power which it is difficult or impossible to give to Generals of another country with a national army.

Errors of Past. "Therefore, in spite of all the arrangements made unless there be not merely good will, but the knowledge that the public of France, Great Britain and America will assist in co-ordination and in support of the authority in the supreme strategical plans chosen by the governments and in supporting the governments in any action they may take to assert their authority any arangement will be futile and mischevious. make no apology for dwelling at some length upon this point. I have always felt that we were los ing value and efficiency in the allied armies through lack of coordination and concentration.

"We have sustained many disasters already through this and we shall endure more unless this deficin our machinery is put right. Hitherto I regret every effort at longed and very bitter controversy and these great inherent difficulties were accentuated and aggravated. There were difficulties of carrying out plans and other obstacles and what is worse, valuable time is lost.

"I entreat the nation to stand united for the united control of the strategical operations of our armies at the front. We know how much depends upon unity of concentration. We are fighting a very powerful foe who insofar as he has triumphed, has triumphed mainly because of superior unity.

There is another matter to which should like to refer, and it is the suggestion that our forces have been dissipated on a subsidiary enterprise. Not a single division With regard to Italy, had it not been for the fact that there are battalions of French and British would have been free to throw the whole of its strength on the western front. If there were not some there now the Austrian army would be more powerfully represented than it is on the western Reduced Saloniki Force.

With regard to Saloniki, the only thing the present Government did was to reduce the forces there by two divisions. In Mesopotamia there is only one white division at all, and in Egypt and Palestine to gether, there are only two white divisions, and the rest are either Indians or mixed, with a very small proportion of British troops In these divisions I am referring

I want the House really to consider what that means. There is a menace to our eastern empire through Persia, because through Persia you approach Afghanistan, and through Afghanistan you men-ace the whole of India. Had it not been for the blows inflicted upon the Turks what would have happened? Before these attacks there were Turkish divisions helping the Germans on the west, exactly as they helped them on the east. But what has happened?

They were attacked in Palestine and Mesopotamia, and two Turkish armies were destroyed. If we had remained in Egypt and fended Egypt by remaining there on the canal, and allowing the Turks to hold us with a small force while they were putting the whole of their forces in Mesopotamia, and menacing our position in In-dia by that means, the Turks now could have been assisting the Gerthe east. What is happening now? German battalions at this moment have been sent to assist the ing divisions to help the Germans talions to help the Turks in Palestine. After all, if you have a great empire you must defend it.

There was a great empire which outlying provinces of the empire to defend its heart against the Goths and those legations never went back. The British empire has not been reduced to that plight yet. We can defend ourselves successfully in France and we also can hold our empire against anyone who assails it in any part of the world at the same time.

Praise for India.

May I, before I leave this topic. say how much gratitude we owe India for the magnificent way in which she had come to the aid of the empire in this emergency.

It is not the fact that we have got three British divisions in Egypt and Palestine and one in Mesopotamia that has enabled us to hold our own, but it is the fact that we have had these splendid troops from India. Many of them volunteered since the war, and they have adversaries on many a stricken accuracy our losses, because in the case of a battle over such a wide front, fought with such intensity for over a fortnight, with vast numbers of men engaged, the losses sustained must be considerable. The claims of the enemy as to prisoners have been grossly exaggerated, and Field Marshal Haig assured me that they were quite impossible from the figures at his disposal, and which he showed me, and the enemy's claims seem quite preposterqus from the statement he made to me.

But still our losses are very great and our reserves have been called upon to a considerable extent to make up the wastage and refit the units, and, if the drain continues on this scale a drain on the resources of reserves and of man-power, it must cause deepest anxiety unless we take immediate steps to replenish it.

The immediate necessity is relieved by the splendid and generous way and promptitude in which America has come to our aid, but they are simply lent to receive their training with a view to their incorporation at the first suitable moment in the American army in France, and even if they remain

There is no doubt he has overwhelming reasons. There is the economic condition of his country and the critical economic condition of his allies. He now is at the height of his power, and Russia is at the lowest, while America has not yet come in in its strength. So, this year the enemy may put forth something which approaches his full strength. But soon he will grow feebler and weaker in comparison with the allied forces.

Everything, therefore, points to the definite determination of Gersources into seeing a military decision this year, and this mean, a prolonged battle from the North Sea to the Adriatic, with Germany and Austria throwing in the whole of their strength.

months within which the fighting can continue, and everything de pends on our keeping our strength right to the end whatever strain upon our resources may be. With American aid we can do it. But even with American help we cannot feel secure unless we are prepared ourselves to make even reater sacrifice than we have hitherto made. I know what the Government wishes. I know what will happen if the de mand which the Government is putting forward is not responded

It is idle to imagine, as some people very light-heartedly seem to think, that you have got an unlimited reservoir of man power in this or any belligerent country. We already raised in this country for military and naval purposes very raise here the same proportion of en per population as you can in other belligerent countries. I have repeatedly emphasized that in the House of Commons.

Part Navy Plays. We have the greatest navy in the world. The command of the selves, but for our allies, upon the efforts we put forward. That is not only a question of manning the fleet, it is also a question of building, of adding to the numbers of ships, and of repairing the ships. Then you have got a mercantile marine, without which the allies could no continue the strug-gle for a single month.

Al that must be borne in mind and whatever happens and what-ever proposals we put forward towould be folly to do any thing which would interfere with the one fundamental condition to success to the allies—that the navy and shipping must be first.

We have also got to supply coal largely to our allies, as well as But, owing largely to improved organizations in the various ndustries to the way they are adapting themselves from day to day to new conditions and to the increased numbers and greatly increased efficiency of woman labor, there is a reserve of men, which consistent with the discharge of these obligations, may yet be with drawn in great emergency for our battle line. Not without damage to industry-I do not forget thatand not without, to a certain extent, weakening the economic strength of the country and not without imposing restrictions and perhaps privations but without impairment to the striking power of the country for war.

"Nothing could justify such drastic action except an overwhelming emergency precipitated by a great military crisis.

want to point out specially why the steps taken now are steps which will be useful in this battle. First of all, it is a battle which may last for months. The decision may be taken not now or next month, but may be months hence But beyond that, the allies at the present movement have the same reserves of man power to reinforce their armies as Germany has, without taking into account those great reserves in America.

Germans Calling New Class. "The Germans, however, are calling up another class which will produce 550,000 efficient young men. These will be prepared to be thrown into the battle line. This is the 1920 class, aged 184. These before this fight is over and we must be prepared for their advent in this struggle this year. Therefore, I have to submit to the Par-liament the totals for increasing, and increasing very materially, the reserves which will be available for reinforcing our armies in the field during this prolonged battle upon which we are only just entering. the proposal we intend to make in order to increase the number of men available. We already have raised for armed forces during the first quarter of the year more than the quarter's proportion of the original number of men which it was estimated was the minimum required for the present year. We also are effecting a very strict comb out of some of the essential Very large levies have industries. been taken from munition works. They will amount, I think to something like 100,000 grade one men. That has been done already this year and it will, of course, involve the utilization of other labor to a very large extent in munition works. A call for 500,000 has been made already on the coal industry and these men have been rapidly recruited. I regret to say that military needs will necessi tate the calling up of another 150,-000 men from this industry. These men can be spared, we are conmatter very carefully, without endangering the essential output of coal for national industries.

Miners Have Been Loyal. "No one is likely to forget the fine response made by the miners at the beginning of the war or the splendid part they have taken in hundreds of battles since then They have been loyal in meeting the present demand of 50,000 men, and I am confident they would meet a further call upon them in the same spirit, in view of this great national emergency under which we are making it. The transport services also have been called upon to release the greatest possible number of fit men.

"Further calls are to be made upon the civil service. I do not think it is realized how much the civil service has done already. On one hand it has had to release a large number of men for the army and, on the other hand, it has to meet and is meeting the increased strain of work. But even at the risk of some dislocation we must call upon it to do more, and a clean cut of young, fit men must be made.

"It is proposed that no fit men below the age of 25 should be retained. That is the clean cut. We comb out beyond that. That is what is called the clean cut. I shall explain it later. It is proposed that it should be applied to other industries as well.

"When we are adding to the age and when we are extending the military age, it should not be said there are fit young men of 25 who are employed in the various industries of the country. This will bring the civil service into line clean cut is concerned, with the day and other orders of the same power will follow. I know the House will appreciate that it is not merely necessary to have men but to have them quickly. It is no use raising them unless they are raised in time to take part in the struggle, this year, when we shall be short of drafts, if the battle is a prolonged one.

Shortens Length of Call. The Government, therefore, has shortened the length of the calling up notice from 14 days to seven and have authorized the sending of notice by whatever method is the most expeditious and convenient. It may be necessary even to curtail the rights of appeal on medical grounds, but for the moment it is not proposed to do so We have had a good many frivolous appeals which have wasted a good deal of time and if that goes on it will be absolutely necessary in the interest of the security of the country, that the rights of appeal should be curtailed in this respect. There is another consideration The strain upon the medical profession has been great already. We are very short of medical men, and we may be driven to it by the hard necessities of the case.

I now turn to the new proposal embodied in the bill, which I beg leave to introduce today. Our first proposal is to raise the military age up to 50, and, in certain specified cases, we ask for powers to raise it to 55, but that only when a man with special qualifications is needed. For instance, it may be necessary to do it in the case of medical men in order to secure their services. It may be necessary in certain special classes with spe cial training and special experience to secure their service for the

of raising the age to 50, it does not mean that men between 42 and 50 are necessarily to be taken in order to put them into the fighting line, it may be that there are men of that age who are just as fit as men of 25, but I am sorry to say that that is the exception, and we cannot-therefore depend upon men of that age altogether to make the finest fighting material.

"There are a good many services in the army which do not require the very best physical material and it would be very helpful to get men of this age to fill those services in order to release younger and fitter men to enter the fighting line. There also is to be borne in mind the fact that we have to prepare for home defense, so as to be able to release men from this country and fill their places by men between 42 and 50, who, I tenaciously for their own homes if there were an invasion. Only Small Per Cent for Army.

"The proportion of men from 42 to 50 years of age whom we expect to be available is not very high-something like 7 per cent That is only 7 per cent of from 42 50 years will be available for the army.

"I only want to reassure people between 42 and 50 that all the men of that age are not going to be called up to the fighting line. gave a sort of rough estimate that it would be only a small nercentage of men of this age who will be likely to come under the "Now I come to the question of exemptions from military service. It is known to everyone who has had experience in the difficulty of obtaining manpower that one of the many obstacles to success is the number of exemptions which have been granted often for reasons which at the time appeared sufficient, but which should no time of crisis. The Minister of National service already has the power under the act passed this year to cancel certificates granted on occupational grounds and it is proposed to make free use of power. There will be several of these exemptions which will be canceled under the power which already has been conferred on the Minister of National Service by means of proclamations, but when the existing powers have been used to go farther and deal with exgranted on grounds.

Accordingly, it is provided by the bill that His Majesty may, by proclamation, declaring that a national emergency has arisen, direct that a certificate of exemption from the military service of the nature specified in the proclamation shall cease to have effect, and that while any such proclamation remains in force no exemptions shall be granted which would fall within the terms of the proclama-

Never Submit to Defeat. It is obvious that under this provision it would be open to the Government to cancel exemptions in respect of men under age to be specified in the proclamation.
That is another means of arriving at a clean-cut so as to secure men of military age, fit young men for the purposes of the army under an age to be specified in the proclamation, and any existing exemp-tions granted to such men will be superseded, and the men will be taken or left on medical grounds only. We have to choose between ing the necessary measures to avert it. We will never submit to accepting defeat.

I need hardly say that this provision wili not be used to set aside the pledges given to discharged They will be carefully observed.

It is proposed further to make a change in the Constitution of the appeal tribunals dealing with exemptions and to speed up pro-I want again to emphasize the fact that time is the essence of this thing. The existing tribunals, no doubt, have done very admirable work, but they will be the first to admit that their work has been hampered by a number of circumstances-the number of the tribunals themselves, the facilities for unnecessary and repeated applications and the opportunities for delay under recurring rights of appeal.

In these circumstances it is proposed to take power by an order-in-council both to reconstitute the tribunals and regulate the areas in which they should work and standardize the grounds of exemption and limit the right of appeal. It is impossible now to specify the precise nature of the change to be made, but I may indicate the nature of the change Firstly, the areas within which we have in mind. the tribunals may act will be re considered and in some cases adjusted. Secondly, the local tribunals, like appeal tribunals, will become nominated bodies and be reduced in size. This does not mean that use will not be made of the assistance of existing members of tribunals and they will be will-under the new conditions. We proposé to make an attempt to standardize more accurately than now is done the grounds of exemption to prevent conflict. different localities which is one of the great grievances felt in the country. Changes also will be made in the procedure, but upon these I do not intend to dwell at the moment. There also is the question of noncombatant pur-

Conscription for Ireland. I now come to the question of Ireland. When an emergency has arisen which makes it necessary to put men of 50 and boys of 18 into the army to fight for liberty and independence (Joseph Devlin here interrupted) -and small nationalities. And especially, as I am reminded, to fight for liberty and in-dependence and small nationalities, I am perfectly certain it is not possible to justify any longer the exclusion of Ireland.
Mr. John Dillon: You will not get any man from Ireland by comon: not a man!

What is the position? No home rule proposal ever submitted in this House proposed to deprive the Imperial Parliament of the power of dealing with all questions in relation to the army and navy. These invariably are in every ho bill I have ever seen and are purely questions for the Imperial Par-liament, so that I am no more claiming any national right than was ever claimed in this House. The defense of the realm act also was extended to Ireland. The character of the quarrel in which we are engaged is just as much Irish as English. May I say it is more so. It is more Irish Scotch and Welsh than it is even English, Ireland, through its rep resentatives at the beginning of the war assented to it.

COULD IDENTIFY SOME IN THE MOB

Witness Says He Could Point Out Faces, but Not Give Names; Testimony of Other Witnesses.

Albert Kneedler, 19 years old. nephew of Guy Kneedler, former Mayor, and now City Counselor of Collinsville, testified at the secret inquest today into the lynching last Friday of Robert Paul Prager, German enemy alien, which he witnessed, that, when the man was first swung up his hands were free and he clutched at the rope. He was let down, his hands tied, and then hanged until dead.

Kneedler testified that he first saw Prager when the mob was forcing him to parade through Main street, about 9 p. m., with a fig wrapped around him, and said he was there when a policeman reserved Prager and took him to the jail.

The mob, he said, followed to the city hall and stood about arguing Mayor Siegel came out and made a speech and the crowd went a block away, to Main and Center streets, but presently returned and Siegel made another speech and invited a member of the mob to come in and search the jail, which is in the city hall building. A few went away, he said, but the majority remained and some complained that, if they had surrounded the jail it could not have been possible to send Prager away. Then the jail was serched and Prager brought out.

Permitted to Write Note. Kneedler testified that he followed the mob to where Prager was lynched. Under the tree, he said, Prager was permitted to write a farewell note to his parents and to offer a prayer, and then the rope was put around his neck and he was drawn up. He grasped the rope and struggled. He was then lowered and struggled. He was then lowered and his hands were tied. Then he was pulled up again and held there. Kneedler said he knew the faces of some of the men who pulled on the rope and could identify them, but did not know their names.

Earl Bitzer also testified. He is employed at the garage of his father, Walter Bitzer. The rope with which Prager was hanged is understood to have been obtained from an automobile belonging to the Bitzers.

Lynching Denounced at Meeting. At a meeting attended by about 400 persons, a neighborhood committee of the State Council of Defense was organized at Collinsville last tendent of the Collinsville public schools, who was made chairman, said that the lynching of Prager was a Kaiser victory, inasmuch as it the breaking down of democracy in Benjamin Weidel, grand master of Missouri Odd Fellows, and several others spoke, all denouncing the lynching. Mayor Siegel said that he really believed that Prager had been taken away from the jail or he would have resisted the mob.

Overcharges practiced upon soldiers and sailors, such as the case, reported by policemen yesterday, in which a Market street barber charged a soldier $2.40, are to be dealt with in future by committees, here and in other cities and training camp centers, representing the Com-mission on Training Camp Activities. An Associated Press Dispatch from Washington today announced that the commission had undertaken a campaign against petty profiteering, and that the co-operation of leading merchants would be enlisted in the movement to suppress practices of imposition on men in the service, and to punish those engaging in such

GREGORY TO HELP STOP DISQUIET IN ILLINOIS

To Send Representatives at Lowden's Request to Co-operate in Ending Mob Spirit.

WASHINGTON, April 10 (By A. P.) .- Federal co-operation in suppressing disloyalty and disorder in Illinois has been promised by Attorney-General Gregory in response to a request from Gov. Lowden. Special agents of the Department of Justice will be assigned to advise with State officials and aid in the conduct of investigations

In announcing the Attorney-General's decision, Department of Justice officials let it be known that he was prepared to lend similar assistance to other states desiring it Without new legislation officials say they are almost powerless to deal with disloyal utterances, the suppression of which they think is es sential to the prevention of disor ders, but the Federal agents are ex pected to accomplish something in co-operation with State authorities.

Americans Worked Rifles and Machine Guns Upon Germans Until Weapons Were Too Hot to Use.

FIRE INFLICTED HEAVY CASUALTIES

Story Told of Germans in British Uniforms Caught in Vain Effort to Trick Canadians.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, Monday, April 8 (By A. P.) .- The American railway engineers who helped stem the tide of the onrushing Germans during the opening days of the battle now in progress fought shoulder to shoulder with Canadian engineers in carrying out their task.

They held their ground stubborn ly and only retired to previously pre-pared positions when forced to do o and inflicted casualties by the housands upon the Germans as they advanced in close formation, in one each wave 10 men deep and 100 yards apart.

The Americans, with the Canadians, had all the ammunition they needed and, although they were unsupported by the artillery and armed only with rifles and with a few machine guns they poured scythelike streams of bullets into the enemy at several different times until the weapons were so hot as to be use-

This handful of American soldiers who were not hardened to such ter-rific slaughter, was sickened by the shambles it created, but fought fuously for several days, helping to hold the enemy all the way from St. Quentin to the vicinity of Noyon.

These were the Americans men oned at the time in the official communiques, but these details of their exploits it has only now been pos-

Formed Into Fighting Unit. When the German attack began the Americans were working in the rear lines with the Canadians under Canadian command. They quickly threw down their tools and seized the weapons with which they had been armed for some months, and formed themselves into a fighting unit. The Germans came on and finally reached the positions where the Americans were waiting.

The exact number of the engineers cannot be given, but it was comparatively small. They had no intention of retreating, however, and were bent upon killing all the Germans possi-ing a single shot—just advancing.

The Americans were unable to understand these tactics, but, nevertheless, were certain that it was a question of slaughtering the enemy or being themselves smothered under the advance. By this time their weapons were so hot they could not be used effectively, and the enemy was close, so the engineers retired fighting, took up another position and began operations again.

"Held On by Their Teeth."

A British officer who witnessed the engagement is reported to have said: "They held on by their teeth until the last moment, inflicting terrific casualties on the enemy. Then they moved back and waited for the Germans and repeated the performance. By the time the engineer had reached a place, some place near Noyon, they were nearly exhausted and nearly without equipment. There they were given a chance to rest and re-equip. According to all reports, they were entitled to it, for centainly they gave the Germans a gener-ous sample of what the enemy is to expect from the American army. Story of Trick That Failed. During a battle unusual stories always crop up, but the following is one which the correspondent heard from an unquestionable source, and is said to have been verified:

In one of the periods when the American engineers and their Canadian comrades in arms were holding a position what appeared to be a British staff motor drove up. The driver was in the uniform of a British soldier and a man in the tonneau was in the uniform of a British staff officer.

The officer stepped out and asked r the commanding officer. He was aken to a Canadian officer nearby. The "staff officer" ordered the comnander to retire four kilometers, saying that the Germans were pressing on both flanks and he might be cut off,

For some reason the Canadian mmander became suspicious. He had the "staff officer" searched, when the latter failed to produce his authority and papers were found on him proving that he was a German officer. He and his chauffeur were immediately shot. American engineer officers are said to have Civilization must go a long way before it can completely eliminate disease germs; but science has shown the way to lessen their danger.

Disinfection has changed Panama from a pest-hole to a health resort. Disinfection has made yellow fever in Havana only a memory.

If it is possible perfectly to disinfect great areas and big cities it is easy perfectly to disinfect the germ-breeding places in the home.

Epidemics are born of dirt and ignorance. Do your share to offset the tragic effects of this ignorance. Don't let the neglect of others endanger the health of your family. Disinfect your home regularly and thoroughly with Lysol.

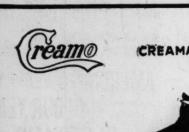

Lysol Disinfectant annihilates all germ-life at the instant of application. Great hospitals rely upon its powerful disinfecting qualities. Boards of health and physicians urge its use. Get a bottle today, mix a little of it with water, and use the solution regularly in garbage cans, toilets, sinks, and drains. Use it in scrubbing-water and in dark, sunless corners. Lysol is economical; a 50c bottle makes 5 gallons of powerful disinfectant—a 25c bottle makes 2 gallons. Lysol is invaluable for personal hygiene.

Lysol Toilet Soap Contains Lysol, and therefore protects the skin from germ in-fection. It is refreshingly sooth-ing and healing and helpful for improving the skin. Ask your dealer. If he hasn't got it, ask him to order it for you.

Lysol Shaving Cream Contains Lysol, and kills germs on razor and shaving-brush (where germs abound), guards the tiny cuts from infection, and gives the antiseptic shave. If your dealer hasn't got it, ask him to order a supply for you.

'TRIBE OF APACHES' IN NEW YORK PROPOSES BILL AGAINST CITY 'ADS' PRINTED IN GERMAN

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

Alderman Haller Says He Will Prepare Ordinance to Stop Official Publications in Alien Language.

HAS COST LARGE SUMS IN PAST

Practice Is Declared to Be Waste of Funds and Un-American-Believes Meas ure Will Pass Quickly.

Alderman Julius Haller today said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that he would begin immediately the preparation of an ordinance to stop the printing of official proceedings of the Board of Aldermen and other city official matters in a German newspaper. Such publications in the West-liche-Post for many years have cost the city large sums of money, the expenditure for this purpose during the past year having been $25,106.26. "I would have prepared such an ordinance long before this," Haller said, "but I, as well as other mem-bers of the Real Estate Exchange, which has had the matter under con-sideration for many months, was under the impression that an amend-ment to the charter would be required to stop this waste and this un-American practice. "Now that we have the opinion of City Counselor Daues that it can be stopped by ordinance, I shall lose no time in pushing such a bill to pas-sage, and hope that it can be passed before the time for letting the con-tract for next year.

"While I believe this printing should be stopped as an economic measure, the principal motive actuatthe United States nor St. Louis can be part American and part German For me, I prefer to be all American "There is no reason why the city should keep up this practice of encouraging its foreign-born popula-tion to refrain from becoming Americans, and I have not the least doubt that the Board of Aldermen will pass the measure as quickly as it legally can be passed. I can see no defense which can be offered for continuing such printing." Results of Poll.

The Post-Dispatch yesterday. polling members of the Board of Aldermen, found that 11 of the 25 members favored the passage of such an ordinance, 11 were noncommittal and seven not reached. Of the latter number one said today he favored the ordinance, two were noncommit-tal and four could not be reached. Alderman A. H. Niederluecke of the Nineteenth Ward favors the bill, Aldermen Lohman of the Ninth and Schrantz of the Twenty-seventh were oncommittal, and Aldermen God-ey, First Ward; McChesney, Seventeenth: Eilers Twenty-sixth and Bergmann of the Eighteenth Ward, were not reached. The present contract for German printing expires June 15 and the leting of a new contract is in charge of Supply Commissioner Thomas. The existing ordinance requires the Supply Commissioner to advertise for bids for printing in both English and German on the second Monday in May. Although no date for letting the contract is set, it has been customary to award the contract about sioner Thomas has authority to hold up the letting of the contract until the latter part of May, so that the Board of Aldermen may have time to pass the ordinance necessary to abolish the German printing.

The city pays the Westliche Post 12 cents a line for straight contract The St. Louis Star, the lowest bidder among the English paper for the city printing, bid 11% cents a line last year for the same printing.

ANTWERP TO BE AMONG MAIN GERMAN DEMANDS IN BELGIUM'

Retention of Port Vital to Future Economic Position," Says Cologne

Gazette. LONDON, April 10 (Special Cable).-The Cologne Gazette, in an inspired sketch of the economic conditions which Germany would be disposed to dictate to Belgium, in the event of the nominal restoration of that country, deals more particularly with Antwerp.

"It may be stated without exag-geration," says the Gazette, "that the port of Antwerp is indispensable for the interests of industry, com merce and traffic in the West and South of Germany. If we lost the ort of Antwerp, or if we were hampered in using it, this would mean the renunciation of all the advan-tages which Antwerp possesses for great parts of Germany, as com-pared with the other world trade ports. Germany will be able to main-tain her future world economic position only if she continues to pos-to England, a secured base for he foreign trade and sea traffic. "Consequently, in addition to cer tain treaty agreements, with which we cannot entirely dispense, real eco-nomic guarantees must be created upon the basis of closer community of trade interests." The Gazette indicates that the main German demands in this connection will be in regard to the inland waterway traffic, railway traffic,

Half-way measures played no part in the building of this nation. All of America's great captains—Washington, Lafayette, Grant, Lee—whether of Northern birth, Southern birth or foreign birth, were men—men who pledged body, brains and fortune to the cause they believed in. GERMAN SCHOOL CLOSES.

FOR LACK OF ATTENDANCE

The German Evangelical parochial school at Milistadt, near Belleville, has been closed for lack of attendance. An effort was made Tuesday to reopen the school for the second semester, but no children appeared for enrollment.

Prof. August Schoppe had been teaching the school for 25 years. Milistadt is the strongest German settlement in St. Clair County.

Some of the citizens recently have carried on an agitation against the continuance of the German school.

HEALTH HINTS. ANXIOUS.—There are as many JOHN SMITH.—U. S. Navy Remedies for eczema as there are cruiting Station, 7th and Chetsnut, for asthma, and as there were for consumption 20 years ago. As a part of the same statement, eczema is the most prevalent of all skin diseases and 90 per cent of those who have it have tried one or more of the infallible remedies. Some of the people who say they have been the people who say they have been the people who say they have been the people who say they indorse the people who say they have been cured by the remedies they indorse are well. Some find relief from the itching, the most objectionable symptom. Then why do not these remedies cure all the cases on which they have been tried? The which they have been tried? The reason is that eczema, like catarrh, is a grab bag. Into it are thrown all skin diseases which last awhile and which are not evidently some well-known disease. Sutton says that it is not possible to "formulate a satisfactory definition to this disorder or to state precisely what the term includes and does not include." However, he is not willing to go so far as Walker, who says: "Eczema However, he is not willing to go so far as Walker, who says: "Eczema is a term commonly applied to any wet or scaly inflammation of the skin of the cause or nature of which the observer is ignorant." There are two outstanding symptoms of eczema—itching and oozing—and even these are not regular either in presence or degree. For inverse

SERVICE BOARD GETS 2 PLANS FOR WIDENING 12TH STREET

Each Contemplates Condemnation

Strips on Each Side to Pro-vide Additional Width. Two plans for widening Twelfth street, from Market street to Poplar street, were presented to the Board of Public Service by the City Plan Commission yesterday. Each pro-poses the condemnation of strips on both sides of Twelfth street to provide for additional width.

One plan contemplates making Twelfth street 150 feet wide from Market street to Poplar street, and the other a width of 150 feet at Market street, to eliminate an offset, with a gradual decrease to 100 feet at the entrance of the viaduct. Each plan proposes the use of a part of the grass plot in front of the city

The board of Public Service has referred the plans to Director of Streets and Sewers Talbert for an es-timate of cost. The City Plan Commission believes that the improvement can be made at less expense now than hereafter, owing to the re-moval of the old warehouse at the southeast corner of Twelfth and Market streets.

The city owns all the ground or the west side of Twelfth between Market street and Clark avenue, a considerable parcel on the east side in the same block, and the entire frontage on the east side between Clark avenue and Spruce street.

SOCRATES ON THE FIRST YEAR.

C OCRATES: We had quite an interesting debate at the agora last night on our first year in the war. Opinion differed as to just what we actually had accomplished, and finally Crites was kind enough to suggest that I sum up for them all, in order that everybody might go home with some definite notion of what the discussion had brought out. Glaucon: That was nice of Crites.

Socrates: I thought so. At any rate, I was glad to do it. I said that in the first year of the war we showed that while we were not as well prepared physically as we might have been, we proved ourselves easily the best-prepared nation mentally that had gone into the war. Our Americanism, as opposed to Prussianism, at once clarified the issue and joined the allies together in a cause which is in itself invincible.

Thrasymachus: Most excellently said. Socrates: Thanks, Thrasymachus, I said that what we needed more than anything else in the war on the Kaiser at the time this country joined in the conflict was a great moral victory over the Germans, something above the mere application of force. It was the absence of such a moral victory that had destroyed the usefulness of Russia as an ally even before we came in. Polemarchus: Exactly.

Socrates: Very well. It was at this truly psychological moment that the world first heard the voice of America. That voice, in my opinion, has had no equal in history. At a time when more people than had ever lived before were in much the greatest moral confusion into which the world had ever been plunged, there suddenly rang on men's eager ears everywhere that inspiration to humankind's faltering soul. That voice expressed faith in all that the world held dear. It expressed the aspirations of the happiest free people on earth. It expressed in opposition to what the world most dreaded what the world best loved.

Glaucon: No doubt about it.

Socrates: It was a moral Marne from which the very German cause itself was hurled back and made to dig in. What does it matter if we did not quite meet the merely physical expectations of us when we so far exceeded what anyone possibly could have expected of us in our contribution to the allied mo-

Thrasymachus: No difference at all. Socrates: So said I last night. I said that no matter how much any of the rest of us have failed, the amazing degree to which Wilsonus has succeeded has made up for it all. Glaucon: Quite so.

Socrates: Then that is settled. Now let us do something for the boys who are fighting in France by buying a bond.

The Russians, who have let the Germans walk all over them, are said to be indignant because the Japs have landed soldiers at Vladivostock. Can Mr. Allison, who figured the United Railways, figure the Russians?

A Liberty Bond couplet: Buy a bond Or cross the pond.

All the cities are trying so present Liberty Loan campaign, but we haven't seen anything that expresses the idea quite like our own Old Dutch Cleanser statue on Twelfth street.

The song which has it that Ireland is "Just a little bit of Heaven that has dropped from out the blue," probably isn't being sung with any enthusiasm in England just now.

S the conflict of proletariat against be a Russian question? Have we in this con try a middle class on whose rights a ess and propertyless lower class feels in called upon to trample upon utterly? ve have, we have never supected it, as does not indeed appear at all likely. B certain revelations and arguments were presented the other day before a satorial conference at Albany, N. Y., tend make it appear that not only is such class conflict irrepressible in this co but that it is actually on. The con was one in which three represent the Real Estate Board of New York Messrs, Dowling, Doyle and McGuire folded to leading Senators of New State views and data as to a great dans to which real estate owners in parti are being subjected. The burden of the statement is that the unthrifty, lazy, ! less and dollarless masses are engaged a deliberate attempt to mulct the thrift for their own benefit, through the increase of municipal expenditure, the tensions of municipal ownership, the qua tering upon the public payrolls of es creasing thousands of employes, and the public provision of all sorts of pleasure and luxuries for those who do not pay to them. With this process has gone a vaincrease of real estate taxation, and it has become a question not merely of much the traffic will bear," but of her much can actually be extorted.

Little by little the gross debt of the dry of New York has been increased to $1,600, 000,000. This is a first mortgage on $8,100, 000,000 of real estate privately owned. I the meantime, the increase in the and cost of the departments of the city Gove ment devoted mainly to social se in the past few years amounted to $30,000 000. In five years 800 new employes we added to the Board of Health, and 1204 a the Department of Charities. In all, 50 city employes were added to the city pa roll in five years. In all this, no de there is no direct proof of any Bolsh raid on the bourgeois. But the real est gentlemen at Albany were able to many utterances of Socialists and oth going to show that they regard the proled, and particularly the moderatetied citizen as their fair prey. Mr. Do in analyzing this phase of the sitt says that in the past 20 years the migration of self-respecting people from Northern Europe has virtually ceased," as instead of them there have arrived hords of miserable people, bringing and reta not only their own languages but an l tense hatred of all who have propert These people had their sick and feeble be cared for, their children to be ed and their poor to be supported. The ide of making all these dependent on the proortied class is particularly welcome to them. And they instantly become the pro of political demagogues who offer the still further bourgeois plunder. In the minds of these gentlemen of the Real Estate Board, the situation become less than a Bolshevik raid on the pe who have a little money. And what, while, do the real estate men want of t New York Legislature? Nothing more present, it appears, than the passage of bill to limit the annual real estate tax New York City to $1.75 per $100 of a essed valuation.
That seems a simple thing—so si hat one wonders if the Real Estate Bas really thinks that the situation is so ous as it represents—whether it is beating the tom-tom a good deal for sake of a little easing up of taxation. The plaint that municipal expenditure is ever where being carried beyond the desira limit. But it is not likely that many will agree with these gentlemen that is any class warfare in the process. expenditures have by no means pushed by the "proletariat" alone, nor -to-do advocates, as the as the New York Real Estate Board alle consisted wholly of "very rich" social at tlement workers who live on the ch, and who are willing to see the m ate property owners plundered. It is a mi take to introduce the idea of class wa into the consideration of this que remedial or "uplift" legislation, and eral or municipal extravagance have pushed too far, the evil is still one to ! abated by the whole community, works together and acting in the general interand not through class argument on

Tom the Brooklyn Edgre.

T is not surprising that American bankers who hold or have held about $116. 000 000 of the bonds representing sia's public debt should be cerned over the prospect of getting no terest for a long time, whatever may h pen to the interest and principal clater on. No remedy is in now. Most intelligent observers do not gard the Moscow repudiation as final. the entente wins the war, Russia will I to pay up. But sounder sense may prein Russia very soon. We hope so. No jury that demagogues can do to a certry lasts so long in its wretchedly evil fects as such an attack on the public statement of the statement of the public statement of the s credit.

Somme, the white town of Peronne, and the then junction of the British and French lines. We turned northwest and made for home. Passing over some lazy sausage balloons we reached Albert. Freed at last from the intermittent shelling from which it suffered for so long, the town was picking up the threads of activity. The sidings were full of trucks, and a procession of some twenty lorries moved slowly up the road to Bouzincourt. As reminder of anxious days, we noted a few skeleton roofs, and the giant Virgin Mary in tarnished gilt, who, after withstanding bombardments sufficient to have wrecked a cathedral, leaned over at right angle to her pedestal, suspended in apparently miraculous fashion by the three remaining

This is a hard question to answer. There are many women with many minds and each woman has a hundred minds about what she likes in a man. What pleases her one minute may bore her the next. What she longs for most she may tire of as soon as she gets it, so that any advice that one might give in the matter is subject to endless change to suit the time, the

There are some roads, though, that come so nearly to always leading to the feminine fancy that it seems worth while to erect a few guide posts along them for the benefit of anxious lovers.

NCE, I was sent by the news-paper upon which I was em-ployed to interview a convicted bigamist who had 24 loving wives in various parts of the country. He was a most ordinary and common place creature, with neither good looks, education, a prep manner, nor money with which to dazzle a woman's eyes and capture her imagination. Therefore, it was with unbounded curiosity that I asked him to reveal to me the secre by which he had won so many female hearts.

For the third successive day cold weather interfered with the second game of the spring series between the Cardinals and Browns. ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH

T HERE is one way to become a champion. Pay strict attention to training, live a healthy life and keep the will to succeed. One victory may not make a man great, but one defeat, or several, never kept a really great man from succeeding." Joie Ray, greatest runner of his day, made that utterance shortly after he smashed the world's indoor record for three-quarters of a mile at the games of the John Wanamaker Commercial Institute in Madison Square Garden recently.

"To be sure," said the little Westerner, "one has to have the natural ability to reach the heights, but having the natural ability, one has to take care of it. There is no room at the top for the fellow who burns the candle at both ends. They may flare for a short ends. They may flare for a short while, but they soon flicker and pass along the way that is strewn with the might-have-beens of life. A Truly Great Athlete.

He plugged away, gradually working his way to the fore out of the mass of youngsters who started with him some five years ago when he ran his first race. His scrap book, in which he has kept faithful record of every trial and every race he ever ran, gives full testimony how hard he worked to succeed. He pointed with a great show of pride to the first record of a mile run in better than 4.38. That was four years ago, and Ray firmly believed that he would not be the succession of the succession o that he would never cut much from that figure. Now he aspires to a mile in 4.10.

Starting Time of Contests National Capital Has Always

Been 4 O'Clock.

Except in Washington, where the 'late start" for baseball games has always existed, it is probable that not one club in the country will start its championship contests at a later hour this season, because of the daylight saving law which went into effect this month.

Connie Mack was the only man-ager of all the 16 major league clubs who was outspoken in favor of a late beginning. Connie wired:

Since that time, however, an expression of the wish of the Government that the clock schedules of last year be the same this year in all Won. Lost lines of endeavor, has changed sentiment, even in Philadelphia.

At the present time not one club has signified its intention of starting at any later hour (by the clock) than last year. In Chicago, Cincin nati and other cities it was first thought the best plan would be to leave it to a vote of fans. Tests showed that the public was little interested in the later start.

expect American Hide and Leather net earnings for its March quarter to bear some witness to the extraordinary break which occurred about three weeks ago in the hide market. Hide prices broke wide open. In a bear cases prices were cut in two. The for instance, certain hides that had been selling at 30% c dropped to 15%. So there declines were nearly as drastic. It is always interesting to hunt for its plains the upset which occurred in light hide quotations. Heavier hides were sympathetic and not basic, and in all instances were of minor importance.

The formal instances were of minor importance.

NE WYORK, April 10.—There was a renewal of liquidation and scattering pressure at the opeing of the cotton market to day. Uncertainty as to the outcome of today of conference between the cotton goods trade and Washingon officials was probably he chief factor.

Selling was also promoted by expectations that the first weekly weather report of the season due before midday, would make a favorable showing, and by the easier ruling of Liverpool.

First prices were barely steady at a decline of 11 to 23 points and the active months sold 25 to 34 points not lower active calls with July touching 32.67c and cotober 31.00c.

Offering increased after the publication of the most four particular to complaints regarding the new crop start and was considered one of the most favorable initial reports in the history of the market. July contracts sold off to 32.62 and October to 30.99 with active months generally showing net losses of 27 to 41 points. Trade interests were buyers on the decline and there was enough covering to cause ralles of several points around midday.
